World's Competitive Record of 283 Falls Before Douglas Edgar's 278 in Canadian Open.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 21.—The world's competitive record for 22 holes in 1872, set last week at Cleveland by James H. Barnes, of St. Louis, who previously set the record at 278, was broken here yesterday by Douglas Edgar, of Atlanta, who, with a score of 278, won the Canadian open golf championship here.

The English professional and former club champion, who represented the United States in the 1904 Olympic games, and came out of the two-day tournament with a score of 278, won the Canadian open golf championship here.

He was cheered by a large gallery when he finished the last hole in his 278, which is three below the course record. His tee shots and putting were admirable.

Edgar's final round with J. Thompson, the Toronto amateur, who at the close of the third round was with his brother, Nicol Thompson, first, which he took by a 10-foot putt.

MAJESTY BEL AND JUGGLING MONEY

about the agreement entered into regarding the deposition of Gen. Wright, the motion to disbar was being maintained in the case.

Magewyn asked that the motion to disbar be denied before any action was taken in the Raine trial motion. The disbarment proceeding takes precedence over other court matters, by authority of the new law.

Bel contended that they go on with the motion for a new trial, as by agreement the motion to disbar could be heard after Bel's and Magewyn's answers to the motion had been filed.

Bel contended further that there was not the slightest reason for the motion to disbar. The motion was made, he said, where constitutional rights having been waived, the cases were reversed by the supreme court, and that the defendant had no right to have his trial set aside.

Postals Officials Figure How They Could Handle Ship- ments From St. Louis.

Preparations for the sale and distribution of surplus government foodstuffs which are to be placed on sale by the war department through the use of the facilities of the postoffice department are in advance locally pending the receipt from Washington of the details as to the manner of handling the commodities.

The local demand will be large. Mr. Metcalf does not doubt but until the amount of foodstuffs to be disposed of throughout the nation is estimated by the war department at $125,000,000, canned vegetables $22,000,000, canned fruit $22,000,000, fresh frozen beef $22,000,000, and fresh frozen pork $22,000,000.

These foodstuffs are to be sold at the cost to the government plus postage and will reach the ultimate consumer at prices considerably lower than prevailing retail prices. This distribution was made by the postoffice department adopted by the house of representatives, the resolution being introduced by Representative J. J. McCarroll, of Pennsylvania.

Upon the manner of distribution adopted by the government will depend the extent of saving to the ultimate consumer.

As an illustration of how it might be handled, Mr. Metcalf used a shipment weighing 25 pounds of corn. Under the plan the rate would be 6 cents for the first pound and 2 cents for each additional pound, a total of 34 cents for postage for a 25 pound package.
